

Sooty Mold

Sooty mold shows as black blotches on surface of leaves, stems, and fruits, following attack by sap-feeding insects. Mold grows on the honeydew secreted by these insects, and control is directed at the insects, rather than the resulting mold.