

Rot

Infects plants at many stages of growth from seed to storage. To prevent it, plant seeds at the right time. It's also a good idea to use treated seed. In cool, moist areas, build raised beds. Don't set plants in low-lying areas with poor drainage. Don't store damaged vegetables--cure them properly before storage.