

Editing Existing Messages

To edit an existing message, or just to view the entire text of the message, select the message in the Control Panel display, then click on the Edit button. The same dialog will be displayed as for the New command, except that the Delete button will be active. To store the changed message, click the Save button. Clicking Delete will remove the message from the system. Just as in the New command, checking the Save defaults checkbox will save information in the defaults.

The Edit command may also be invoked by double-clicking on the message in the Control Panel.
