

The Ruler

given to the public domain by Olaf Winkelhake, wkwinkel@ibm.rz.uni-passau.de.

If you like the old calculating rulers as much as I do, maybe you'll have some fun to play around with The Ruler.

If you want to run it, you need the run-time version of TOOLBOOK V. 1.5, which is ought to be available (almost) everywhere (at least in the demo program `tbk15demo.zip`).

If you have the "full" version and want to have a look at the scripts, feel free to do so (there is no password) though I think you will not find anything surprising.

Although The Ruler is public domain, I would not object to a postcard send to me in case you like the program (or at least the idea of it). If you have one at hand, send me one with a picture of where you live. Mail it to:

Olaf Winkelhake
University of Passau
Dept. of Economics
Innstr. 27
8390 Passau
Germany