

In the Middle Ages, Christian monks and faith healers alike carefully tended healing gardens. A renewed interest in alternative medicine has revived this type of horticulture. These easily kept plants are common to most areas of the United States and northern Europe.