

This formal rose garden displays the classic use of symmetry in design. Wooden arches on both sides draped in climbing roses line the light colored path, which leads to an archway in the back. The raised beds are filled with bush roses and dusty miller, and in the center is a beautiful man-made pond.