With hypertext links, you can link help topics together to build a network of   topics.

Clicking a hypertext link in the current topic will give you access to the topic referenced by the hypertext link. This will let you browse through the help topics as you like.

You can create three kinds of links with the Topic Editor:

- links that point to another topic : Hypertext link
- links that point   to a pop-up topic : Popup link
- links that point to an external program : External Program link .

A topic is called "pop-up" because   the type of link associated with it specifies that the topic is to be displayed in a temporary window (pop-up window) by the Windows Help Engine.