

DUNGEON BATTLE PRERELEASE BETA VERSION 1.90

=====

Dungeon Battle II is for everybody who likes role playing adventure games, enjoys text based adventures, and likes variety in places & things to do, and likes to figure out secrets things.

Dungeon Battle II is filled with places to go, things to do, and secrets to find. It forces you to travel everywhere because you need certain things from one place to be successful in another.

You can start as a wizard or a fighter (or you can define your own character type, but that's a secret). Wizards are more powerful with magic, and fighters are more effective using traditional weapons. Fighters are stronger overall, and are easier to play in the early levels. Wizards are difficult to get past first level, but gain levels more rapidly after reaching level 2.

Of the many places to go, there are the obligatory weapon shop & armour shop. Also there is a magic book store where books of magic spells can be purchased. Then there is the casino, the inn and the healers hut. Many of these places contain secret things that can be found or done.

There is the forest, filled with evil monsters. During your journey in the forest, you will find other items and places on occasion, some beneficial to your character, and some not so beneficial.

The Dungeon is pretty unique. You can choose to fight one of twenty legendary warriors who have long been dead, or you can choose to accept a mission assignment to find certain magical items for a powerful wizard. If you find the item, you are generously paid by the wizard, but beware, you can't use your defensive spells (healing spells) in the dungeon, and there are no healing places to go (as far as you know).

The unknown planes are a complete mystery, and too much information given here would spoil the fun of figuring out what the unknown planes are all about. Let's just say that things are not the same here as in the rest of the game. These planes contain plenty of places you can go to battle, or to do other everyday medieval tasks.

Monsters wanted allows you to kill monsters for gold. There are 25 beasts to defeat, and they must be defeated, in order, before you can win the game.
