ZAP 2.1

Description of the game

ZAP 2.1 is an addictive word-game where you try to create the longest possible word from a randomly generated set of letters. If you like playing such games as Scrabble, you will love ZAP! Long words (up to 12 letters), ten difficulty levels and your personal user dictionary make ZAP 2.1 a perfect game for people of all ages.

ZAP recognizes every player, as your personal data is protected by password. That makes possible the players' rating based on the method accepted in chess and your own user dictionary inaccessible for other players. There is also a joker option, when you can replace any letter with the one, necessary to beat your computer opponent (but keep in mind, that the computer will also replace any letter).

So, are you ready to ZAP?

Main window

All Letters slot contains the randomly generated sets of letters you will use to create your words. When you click on a letter, it goes into your slot (marked "Your word"). The lower slot is for computer opponent's word.
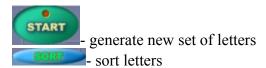

Small windows at the top of the page indicate current game data. The yellow window on the extreme left indicates the number of points you won/lost after the last move.
Next window shows the number of the game. "Hi Score" window shows the maximum rating ever reached by any player on this computer.
"Your Score" shows your current rating. "My Score" shows your computer opponent's rating. "Level" window shows difficulty level you've selected.
