

This file contains an embedded signature object at the bottom. Try double-clicking the signature with the mouse. If you have installed the Signature program, that program should start up, and check the validity of the signature. The signature object will not be valid, due to its having been created before your first effective system password, and on a network using a different system password.

You can try embedding your own signature image in this document, using the Edit/Insert Object/Sign Document menu option to launch the Signature program from within this word processor.

John Doe