1.3 Who is the Doctor ?

The final episode of Season 6 was the ten-parter The War Games It did reveal who the Doctor was: A Time Lord, one of a race of long-lived, omnipotent, omniscient intellects who observed the entire history of the Universe, with their power of time-travel; however, they only interfered in the course of events when it was absolutely necessary.

In Season 14, Robert Holmes wrote The Deadly Assassin , in which we are first introduced to the full culture of the Time Lords of the planet Gallifrey. They are something of an academic species, with many old men wandering University corridors in academic robes, debating issues. With a great love of ceremony and little else, the Doctor saves the planet from the forces of the Master, an evil Time Lord and a counterpart to the Doctor, and, in

The Invasion of Time , The Doctor becomes the President of the High Council of Time Lords.

It is never explained in the series just why the Doctor left his home planet in the first place; we do know that he is stricken with wanderlust, and is never able to stay in a given place and time for generally more than 6 half-hour episodes, unless his time machine is taken away from him.

1.4 tardis

The TARDIS (an acronym for Time And Relative Dimensions In Space) is the time machine that the Doctor and other Time Lords travel in; it is the main vehicle for the series, which takes us to any number of times and places.

It's "dimensionally transcendental" - bigger inside than out -, and, in the Doctor's case, it sometimes doesn't work properly. It is generally stuck in the shape of a Police Call Box, a familiar shape in Britain in 1963 but now obsolete. The version of the Tardis that the Doctor uses is known as a "Type 40", as with the British Police Call Box, the Type 40 is considered an obsolete and outdated version of a TARDIS.

On numerous occasions the Doctor has attempted to repair his ship, with humorous and disastrous results. There is evidently some sort of telepathic link between the Doctor and his ship; they share a symbiotic relationship, and, as in the New Adventures, when the TARDIS malfunctions, so does the Doctor. The TARDIS is perhaps the second-most important character in the series; it is our "passport to adventure", and, in many ways, is the Doctor himself.

1.5 Origins of Dr Who

THE ORIGINS OF DOCTOR WHO

In 1962, Sydney Newman joined the BBC as Head of Drama. Newman was a Canadian who had come to Britain in 1958 to work for ABC Television. Whilst at ABC he worked on the Sunday night play series Armchair Theatre and also played a part in creating The Avengers.

One of his first tasks at the BBC was to create a programme to fill the gap between Grandstand and Juke Box Jury on Saturday evenings. He wanted a programme that would keep adults after the football results as well as being exciting for younger children and interesting enough to hook the teenagers waiting for Jury.

When he had worked in Canada, Newman had worked on several sci-fi series and this was a genre which had all the right ingredients for all types of audience. He was inspired by the H.G. Wells novel The Time Machine, realizing that he could use the time travel concept to present historical stories which could have educational value. Although space travel would be an important ingredient, Newman wanted to get away from the old "monster fun" approach, which he saw as the lowest form of sci-fi.

Newman came up with the idea of a "timeship" which was bigger on the inside than out, disguised as an everyday object. Originally, the TARDIS was to change its appearance to suit its surroundings but this was deemed to be too expensive to pull off. The production team got around this by making the TARDIS chameleon circuit faulty, sticking the ship in its police-box form. In time, the BBC came to buy the rights to the design of the Police Telephone-Box from the Metropolitan Police Force.

In addition to the concept of what was to become the TARDIS, Newman decided that the traveller would be old, alien and unable to control the ship. The unpredictability of this would make for exciting television as the viewers would have no idea where or when the ship would go next. In early 1963 Newman submitted his ideas to Donald Wilson, the Head of the BBC Script Department. It was around this time that the Drama Department was undergoing a restructuring process and as a result of this, the new programme was delayed. The Script Department was abolished and Wilson became Head of the new Serials Department. Newman discussed the new show with Rex Tucker, a producer/director who was to temporarily take the reins of Dr Who in March 1963.

Around this time, responsibility for turning Newman's ideas into solid scripts was handed to C.E. Webber. "Bunny" Webber was a mutual friend of both Donald Wilson and Rex Tucker and it was Webber who devised the characters of Ian Chesterton, Barbara Wright and Susan. His original script involved the travellers being taken on a journey by the Doctor and being shrunk to just an inch in height. This was rejected by Rex Tucker as "too cerebral", although the idea was later used in the story PLANET OF GIANTS. Tucker handed the job of writing the script to an Australian, Anthony Coburn and appointed the shows' first story editor, David Whitaker.

Coburn's first draft story was based around Webber's rejected manuscript but contained three new scripts based around the stone age. Whitaker was happy with these scripts but suggested changes to make the story less educational and more exciting. He agreed to Coburn's suggestion of a police box shape and the name TARDIS. The character of Susan was changed from being a travelling companion (with its possible sexual connotations) to that of the Doctor's grand-daughter. In April 1963, Rex Tucker went on a holiday and the job of permanent producer was given to an associate of Newman's from ABC, a young woman called Verity Lambert. Lambert was just the right person for the job being young and forward looking. Dr Who was the first in a long line of successes for her, including Adam Adamant Lives!, Budgie and Minder. Lambert soon made her mark on the show, changing many of Tucker's production ideas, including the theme music and some of the tentative casting made by him.

Donald Wilson appointed an experienced man to the post of associate producer as he felt that Lambert was perhaps a little too green to handle the job alone. The man chosen was Mervyn Pinfield. During May and June of '63 the casting process proper began. The lead role was offered to both Cyril Cusack and Leslie French (the choices of Whitaker and Pinfield) but both turned it down. It was Lambert who remembered the performances of William Hartnell in Granada TV's The Army Game and the film This Sporting Life. He was offered the role and accepted after some initial hesitation. The role of Ian was filled by William Russell who had starred in the ITV series The Adventures of Sir Lancelot. Ex model Jacqueline Hill (now sadly deceased) was chosen for the role of Barbara and Susan's part was played by Carol Ann Ford, who had appeared in films since the age of eight. Whitaker drafted a six page writer's guide for the series and soon submissions were reaching Whitaker's desk. Among these early ideas were THE SURVIVORS by Terry Nation and DR WHO AND A JOURNEY TO CATHAY by John Lucarotti. These ideas later made the screen as THE DALEKS and MARCO POLO.

By September '63 Whitaker began to assemble the first 52 week series. Both Terry Nation and John Lucarotti were given a second story but Coburn's second submission, MASTERS OF LUXOR was rejected and Nation's Dalek story was commissioned instead. The theme music was written by Ron Grainer and then taken to the BBC's Radiophonic Workshop and Delia Derbyshire. She and her assistant Dick Mills took Grainer's descriptions of the sounds he wanted, "windbubble and clouds" and came up with the distinctive theme.

The first episode, AN UNEARTHLY CHILD, was filmed on 27th September 1963 in Studio D at the BBC's Lime Grove Studios. This pilot was re-filmed with minor adjustments on 18th October and was transmitted the day after the assassination of John F. Kennedy on 23rd November 1963 at 5:16pm.

1.16 Dr Who Guide Credits

Well the most important is everyone involved in the creation of ↔ the programme in the first place, because without them this wouldn't have happened and I would have saved a lot of money that I've spent on the videos and other merchandise :-)

Jean-Marc Lofficier for his programme guide, which as the cover says is essential for any Dr Who fan.

Steve Williams, for his additional material, suggestions, encouragement and general checking on the mistakes ${\rm I}' {\rm ve}$ made.

Commodore for creating the best computer in the world...

1.17 Dr Who Guide Version Notes Copyright © 1994, Glyn Cornfield

0.9 - Errmm well it's the first version that I've seen fit to $\, \hookleftarrow \,$ launch.

- 1.0 The first proper release. Now includes the Misc section and an index.
- 1.1 Now includes details of the New Adventure books, the option to view pictures, and some other minor additions.
- 1.2 Some more minor changes. New section on other Time Lords added. Clips section added to Misc.
- 1.3 Missing Season, Origins and Enemies sections added. Minor amendments.

Take me back please....

1.18 The Future ?

Well, obviously correcting any errors that have occurred is $\, \hookleftarrow \,$ important.

I gradually intend to expand the scope of the guide and any suggestions in this direction would be welcome. My intention is to eventually make it a full multi-media program including music, sound and pictures. 1.179 SUSAN FOREMAN

Played by Carole Ann Ford

First appearance: An Unearthly Child (Nov. 23, 1963) Last appearance: Dalek Invasion of Earth (Dec. 26, 1964) Reprised the role in the Five Doctors (Nov. 25, 1983)

Susan was the Doctor's granddaughter, who attended Coal Hill School on Earth for a time. Ian and Barbara, two of her schoolteachers, were impressed by her great knowledge and followed her to the TARDIS where she lived. The TARDIS at that point was at 76 Totters Lane, where the whole series began.

1.180 BARBARA WRIGHT

Played by Jacqueline Hill

First appearance:

An Unearthly Child (Nov. 23, 1963) Last appearance: The Chase (June 26, 1965) Also appeared as Lexa in Meglos (Sept. 27, 1980)

Barbara was a schoolteacher, a good friend of Ian's, and very interested in Susan's home and upbringing. While following her home one night, she ended up meeting the Doctor. Worried that Susan was being held captive in a police box, she burst in and thus started travelling with the Doctor. She left with Ian when they ended up back on 1965 Earth.

1.181 IAN CHESTERTON

Played by William Russell

First appearance: An Unearthly Child (Nov. 23, 1963) Last appearance: The Chase (June 26, 1965)

Ian was also a schoolteacher and a good friend of Barbara's, who agreed to tag along with her and follow Susan to find out where she lived. Ian, worried that Susan was being held captive in a police box, allowed Barbara to burst through the doors while he held back the Doctor. He then also entered the TARDIS and ended up travelling with the Doctor, Susan and Barbara. He left with Barbara when they landed on 1965 Earth.

1.182 VICKI

Played by Maureen O'Brien

First appearance: The Rescue (Jan. 2, 1965) Last appearance: The Myth Makers (Nov. 6, 1965)

Vicki was the last survivor of a crashed ship. She was brought to the TARDIS by Ian and Barbara, and when they left, she decided to stay with the Doctor. She stayed with him until they arrived in ancient Greece, where she fell in love with Troilus and married him. Vicki was one of the first companions to break through the first Doctor's grumpy exterior to expose the kind man underneath.

Picture

1.183 STEVEN TAYLOR

Played by Peter Purves

First appearance: The Chase (June 25, 1965) Last appearance: The Savages (June 15, 1966)

Steven was basically a replacement for Ian, providing the muscle of the TARDIS crew. He was captured by the Mechanoids, when the Doctor and Vicki rescued him. He stayed with the Doctor until leaving to help lead the savages.

1.184 KATARINA

Played by Adrienne Hill

First appearance: The Myth Makers (Nov. 6, 1965) Last appearance: Dalek Masterplan (Nov. 27, 1965)

Katarina has the dubious honour of having the shortest period of time as a companion of the Doctor. Katarina fled the destruction of Troy and joined the Doctor, but was killed while attempting to save the Doctor from the Daleks. She killed a traitor that was trying to kill the Doctor by ejecting him into space; unfortunately, she was ejected as well.

1.185 SARA KINGDOM

Played by Jean Marsh

First and last appearance: Daleks' Masterplan

(Dec. 4, 1965 - Jan. 29, 1966)

Also appeared, though not as Sara, in Battlefield (Sept 27, 1989)

Sara Kingdom was a tragic companion who was ordered by Mavic Chen to kill the Doctor, Steven and Bret Vyon (played by Nicholas Courtney, who later played the Brigadier). She managed to kill Vyon, who turned out to be her brother. Infuriated when she discovered that Chen was the real traitor, she destroyed him but was subsequently killed by the Time Destructor. Jean Marsh was married to Jon Pertwee, the Third Doctor , for six months in 1965.

1.186 DODO CHAPLET

Played by Jackie Lane

First appearance:

The Massacre (Feb 26, 1966) Last appearance: War Machines (July 2, 1966)

Dodo accidentally entered the TARDIS, assuming it to be shelter of some kind. She eventually left to stay in modern-day London. Dodo was bright and cheerful, and one of the few companions never to see a Dalek, which the Doctor seemed pleased by ("You've never seen my worst enemy (the Daleks) and I hope you never will...")

1.187 POLLY (WRIGHT?)

Played by Anneke Wills

First appearance: War Machines (July 2, 1966) Last appearance: The Faceless Ones (May 13, 1967)

Polly was a barmaid with a cheerful sense of humour who joined the Doctor for adventure and excitement. A friend of Dodo, she met Ben and he took him with her. They were inseparable. Polly witnessed the regeneration of Hartnell's Doctor in Troughton's, and left the TARDIS at exactly the same time she entered. The Doctor and Polly got along very well, sharing a spirited sense of curiosity.

1.188 BEN JACKSON

Played by Michael Craze

First appearance: War Machines (July 2, 1966) Last appearance: The Faceless Ones (May 13, 1967)

Ben was a sailor, and was on shore leave in a bar when he met Polly. Polly intrigued him because she was so bubbly and excitable, and when she took him out and found the TARDIS, they stayed together. Ben witnessed the regeneration of Hartnell's Doctor into Troughton's and also left the TARDIS at the same time he entered, thus avoiding being AWOL but also having a great adventure in the "meantime".

1.189 JAMES (JAMIE) ROBERT McCRIMMON

Played by Frazer Hines

Also played by Hamish Wilson for the episode

The Mind Robber

(Sept. 21,1968)

First appearance: The Highlanders (Oct. 8, 1966) Last appearance: The War Games (June 21, 1969) Reprised the role in the Five Doctors (Nov. 25, 1983) Reprised the role in the Two Doctors (Feb. 16, 1985)

Jamie is one of the most intriguing companions; a Scotsman fighting the English in 1746, he ran into the TARDIS for shelter. Jamie was able to easily adjust to the Doctor's lifestyle; he regarded the Doctor as a magician, and therefore understood that "magic" things happened around the TARDIS. He has the unique distinction of being the companion with the largest number of episodes, spanning 20 years. Jamie left the Doctor when he was sent back to his own time by the Time Lords, his memory of his time with the Doctor (except for their first adventure) erased.

Picture

1.190 VICTORIA WATERFIELD

Played by Deborah Watling

First appearance: Evil of the Daleks (June 18, 1967) Last appearance: Wheel in Space (April 27, 1968)

Victoria was abused by the Daleks in their search to find the human factor to make themselves stronger, and was rescued by Jamie. The Doctor allowed her to travel with them. She became particularly close friends with Jamie and travelled with them for many episodes before deciding to stay in Aberdeen.

1.191 ALASTAIR GORDON LETHBRIDGE-STEWART (Lt. Col, Brigadier)

Played by Nicholas Courtney

First appearance:

The Web of Fear

(Feb. 10, 1968)

Lethbridge-Stewart was a strong, tall and no-nonsense fellow, a member of the United Nations Intelligence Taskforce (UNIT), when he first met the Doctor in his second incarnation. The Brigadier, as he is fondly known, was one of the sharpest companions and not easily fazed by anything that attacked or worried the Doctor. He has appeared with nearly all of the Doctors at one time, including the first, where he played Bret Vyon. He appeared intermittently throughout the years, and is considered one of the most popular companions. He has only travelled in the TARDIS twice, in the

> Three Doctors , and in Mawdryn Undead

1.192 ZOE HERRIOT

Played by Wendy Padbury First appearance: The Wheel in Space (April 27, 1968) Last appearance: The War Games (June 21, 1969) Reprised the role in the Five Doctors (Nov. 25, 1983)

Zoe was from the 21st century, a quick-thinking scientist with a cheery smile and sharp mind. She contrasted well with the 18th century Jamie and the who-knows-what-century Doctor, making for one of most popular group of companions ever. Zoe joined the Doctor on the Wheel in Space when the Cybermen attacked, and was eventually sent back to her own time by the Time Lords. Her memory of her time with the Doctor was erased, except for their first meeting.

1.193 LIZ SHAW

59 / 100

(June 20, 1970) Reprised the role in the Five Doctors (Nov. 25, 1983)

Liz is the only companion to have never travelled in the TARDIS. She was scientific advisor for UNIT when the regenerated Doctor was found, and eventually left the organization to continue her studies.

1.194 BENTON

Played by John Levene

First appearance: Invasion (Nov. 9, 1968) Last appearance: Android Invasion (Dec. 13, 1975) Also played many monsters throughout the series.

Benton was a member of UNIT who appeared rather irregularly throughout the Second and Third Doctors. He only travelled in the TARDIS once, in the Three Doctors. He was Sgt. Benton throughout most of his appearances, but was promoted to Warrant Officer near the last of his shows.

1.195 JO GRANT

Played by Katy Manning

First appearance: Terror of the Autons (Jan. 2, 1971) Last appearance: The Green Death (June 23, 1973) Voice heard in Planet of the Spiders (May 4, 1974)

Jo was the niece of a United Nations bigwig and managed to get assigned to UNIT. She became a favourite of the Third Doctor's, helping him during his exile and then travelling with him in his TARDIS after it was repaired in "The Three Doctors". She left to get married.

1.196 MICHAEL YATES

Played by Richard Franklin

First appearance: Terror of the Autons (Jan. 2, 1971) Last appearance: Invasion of the Dinosaurs (Feb. 16, 1974) Reprised role in Planet of the Spiders (May 4, 1974) Appeared in the Five Doctors (Nov. 25, 1983)

Michael Yates was a captain in UNIT, who had to leave when he betrayed them in Invasion of the Dinosaurs. Apparently he reformed, because he was heard and seen in later episodes.

1.197 SARAH JANE SMITH

Played by Liz Sladen First appearance: The Time Warrior (Dec. 15, 1973) Last appearance: Hand of Fear (Oct. 23, 1976) Appeared in the Five Doctors (Nov. 25, 1983) Appeared in K9 and Company a spin-off Sarah Jane was a journalist who stowed away on the TARDIS to report a story. She witnessed the regeneration from the Third Doctor (Pertwee) to the Fourth (Tom Baker). She stayed a close companion and friend of the Doctor's, using her quick journalistic mind to find her way around almost any situation. Sarah Jane travelled with the Doctor longer than any other companion except for Jamie, and would have stayed on longer, but the Doctor had to abandon her on Earth to leave for Gallifrey. He felt so bad about this that he sent her K9 Mark III as a pet, which was used in a pilot episode for a failed spin-off entitled K9 and Company

1.198 HARRY SULLIVAN

Played by Ian Marter

First appearance: Robot (Dec. 28, 1974) Last appearance: Terror of Zygons (Sept. 20, 1975)

Harry is one of the least known male companions. He was tricked into the TARDIS and spent the better part of his time trying to get back to Earth, which he succeeded in doing, appearing in only one subsequent episode (

Android Invasion

, on Nov. 22, 1975). He is the subject of the most famous blooper in Doctor Who's history; in one episode early in his appearance his tie changes patterns in the same scene nearly five times. He also has one of the more insulting lines from the Doctor directed at him: "Harry Sullivan is an imbecile". He wasn't, really, he just wasn't a person who particularly got along with the Doctor.

1.199 LEELA

Played by Louise Jameson

First appearance: The Face of Evil (Jan 1, 1977) Last appearance: Invasion of Time (Mar. 11, 1978)

Leela was a member of the fierce Sevateem tribe of warriors, nearly fearless, with a penchant for knives and nasty types of poison. While the Doctor preferred more subtle ways of defeating an enemy, Leela would be just as likely to pull a knife. She decided she wanted to travel with the Doctor and nearly launched the TARDIS without him on board. She eventually stayed on Gallifrey after falling in love with a Time Lord named Andred. Leela's eyes changed colours from brown to blue in the middle of her season due to an "explosion". She got along well with the Doctor and especially well with K9 , who the Doctor let her keep.

1.200 K9

Played by John Leeson and David Brierly First appearance: The Invisible Enemy (Oct 8, 1977) Last appearance: Warrior's Gate (Jan. 24, 1981) Also appeared in the Five Doctors (Nov. 25, 1983) Appeared in K9 and Company a spin-off

When recalling companions of the Doctor, many people start with "that robot dog...." K9 is one of the most popular companions because of his originality. Built by Prof. Marius, K9 was given to the Doctor because the Professor was unable to bring him back to Earth due to weight constraints. K9 is a cheerful and loyal computer, containing a warehouse of information combined with the happy personality of a friendly dog. The Doctor sometimes got annoyed with K9 for its relentless logic, but liked it enough to build two more copies. K9 Mark I was given to

Leela , K9 Mark II stayed with Romana , and K9 Mark III was given to Sarah Jane

1.201 TIME LADY ROMANADVORATRELUNDAR (First Regeneration)

Played by Mary Tamm

First appearance:

Ribos Operation (Sept. 2, 1978) Last appearance: The Armageddon Factor (Feb. 24, 1979)

The first regeneration of Romanadvoratrelundar, known to the Doctor affectionately as Romana, was a tall, formidable brunette who was assigned to the Doctor's TARDIS to help him fight the Black Guardian. The Doctor, not particularly liking companions being "assigned" to him, nor Romana I's haughtiness, found it difficult to get along with her, although she usually came up with answers long before he could.

1.202 TIME LADY ROMANADVORATRELUNDAR (Second Regeneration)

Played by Lalla Ward

First appearance: Destiny of the Daleks (Sept. 1, 1979) Last appearance: Warrior's Gate (Jan. 24, 1981) Appeared in the Five Doctors via spliced footage from the episode

Shada

, which was never shown in 1980 due to a strike at the BBC.

Romana chose to regenerate, apparently an ability of Time Ladies. She settled on the appearance of a princess named Astra, who they met in the Armageddon Factor. The Doctor got along with the second regeneration of Romana much better than the first; while she was still haughty and regal, she could more easily put up with the Doctor being occasionally silly or confused. They got along well off set as well; Tom Baker and Lalla Ward were married for 1 1/2 years afterwards.

1.203 ADRIC

Played by Matthew Waterhouse First appearance: Full Circle (Oct 25, 1980) Last appearance: Earthshock (May 16, 1982) Appeared briefly in Timeflight (May 23, 1982) in "flashback" form Appeared in regeneration scene in Caves of Androzani

(Mar. 16, 1984)

Adric was a young boy living in an alternate Universe called E-Space, where Romana chose to stay. Adric stowed away in the TARDIS. Adric was one of those sort of individuals with a great deal of intelligence (he owned a badge for Mathematical Excellence which he always wore proudly) but not much common sense. Adric witnessed the regeneration of the Fourth Doctor (Baker) to the Fifth Doctor (Davison). Adric has what is probably the most dramatic exit of any companion; he blew up a ship with himself in it to destroy the Cybermen and save the Doctor. The credits afterwards showed only the shattered badge of Mathematical Excellence and no music

Played by Sarah Sutton

1.204 NYSSA

First appearance: Keeper of Traken (Jan 31, 1981) Last appearance: Terminus (Feb. 23, 1983) Appeared in regeneration scene in Caves of Androzani

(Mar. 16, 1984)

Nyssa was the daughter of Tremas, senior consul of the high council of Traken. Her father was captured by the Master and his body used to effect his thirteenth regeneration, something normally impossible for Time Lords to do. Nyssa escaped from Traken due to the Watcher. She stayed with the Doctor for a long time, with a personal vendetta against the Master for killing her father and eventually destroying Traken itself. She also got along well with both Tegan and Adric, creating a buffer between their very opposing personalities. Nyssa eventually left to help disease victims at Terminus Hospital.

1.205 TEGAN JOVANKA

Played by Janet Fielding

First appearance: Logopolis (Feb. 28, 1981) Last appearance: Resurrection of the Daleks (Feb. 15, 1984) Appeared in regeneration scene in Caves of Androzani

(Mar. 16, 1984)

Tegan was an airline stewardess from Australia with a brash personality who stumbled into the TARDIS looking for help because she had a flat tyre. She got lost in the TARDIS corridors, and when the Master killed her aunt back on Earth, joined the Doctor, Adric and Nyssa. Tegan got along very well with the Doctor, her abrupt personality keeping him alert, and his caring personality keeping her from getting over emotional, as she often did. The sight of the Daleks was too much for her, however, and she left rather abruptly.

Picture

1.206 VISLOR TURLOUGH

Played by Mark Strickson

First appearance: Mawdryn Undead (Feb. 1, 1983) Last appearance: Planet of Fire (Mar 2, 1984) Also appeared in regeneration scene in Caves of Androzani

(Mar 16, 1984).

Turlough was an exile from the planet Trion who was forced to live on Earth. The Black Guardian offered him escape from Earth if he agreed to kill the Doctor. Turlough agreed, but found he could not kill a man that he approved of so much. With the Doctor's help, he was able to defeat the Black Guardian and was eventually allowed back to Trion.

1.207 KAMELION

Played by Gerald Flood First appearance: (Mar 15, 1983) Last appearance: Planet of Fire (Mar 2, 1984) Also appeared in regeneration scene in Caves of Androzani

(Mar 16, 1984).

Kamelion was a robot owned by the Master that could transform itself into any human being, indistinguishable from the real person. He stayed with the Doctor after being rescued in King's Demons, but the Master managed to regain control, thus nearly killing Peri. Kamelion, tortured by the Master, was eventually destroyed. Kamelion did not appear in the intervening episodes between King's Demons and Planet of Fire.

1.208 PERPUGILLIAM (PERI) BROWN

Played by Nicola Bryant

First appearance:

Planet of Fire (Feb. 22, 1984) Last appearance: Trial of a Time Lord (Mindwarp)

(Oct. 25, 1986)

Peri was a friendly young American student who was swimming and nearly drowned. She was rescued by Turlough and brought to the TARDIS, where she joined the Doctor on his travels. She left the Doctor after falling in love with King Yrcanos. Peri witnessed the regeneration from the Fifth

Doctor (Davison) to the Sixth Doctor

(Colin Baker).

1.209 MELANIE (BUSH?)

Played by Bonnie Langford

First appearance: Trial of a Time Lord Terror of the Vervoids

(Nov. 1, 1986)

Last appearance:

Dragonfire (Dec. 7, 1987)

There is no way to explain Melanie's appearance; she was a companion from the Doctor's future who joined him early and already knew him; presumably at some point the Doctor will meet her for what is her first time. Melanie was a health nut, and somewhat giddily happy all the time. She left the Doctor to join Sabalom Glitz on Nosferatu II. Melanie was a very good computer programmer even the Rani made note of it.

1.210 DOROTHY (ACE)

Played by Sophie Aldred

First appearance: Dragonfire (Nov. 23, 1987) Last appearance: Survival (Dec. 6, 1989)

Ace was blasted off the Earth by Fenric in an ice storm and ended up in a colony serving as a waitress, a job with which she was immensely bored. She was a modern Leela, armed with a can of Nitro-9 and a propensity for seeing things explode. She joined the Doctor and was with him up to the last episode of Doctor Who (for now), Survival , which was broadcast in 1989. She also continues as a companion in many of the New Adventure books, available at most major book shops.

1.211 Films

There have been two films actually made, both in the 1960's and starring Peter Cushing as Dr Who. There has been a lot of talk about other films being made, but to date none have actually made it to the screen.

The films actually made are:-

Dr Who and the Daleks Daleks - Invasion Earth 2150

1.212 Dr Who and the Daleks (1965)

Dr Who is an elderly British scientist who has invented a time machine that he calls the TARDIS. With his two granddaughters Susan and Barbara, and Barbara's boyfriend Ian, they travel to Skaro and team up with the Thals to defeat the Daleks. The actual story-line is based very loosely on the first Dalek TV story. Starring: Peter Cushing (Dr Who)

Roy Castle (Ian Chesterton) Jennie Linden (Barbara) Roberta Tovey (Susan)

1.213 Daleks - Invasion Earth 2150 AD (1966)

Tom Campbell is a policeman who stumbles into the TARDIS while trying to stop a jewel robbery. He meets Dr Who with his niece Louise and granddaughter Susan. They step out into London in the year 2150, where they find that the Daleks have conquered the Earth and plan to use it as a mobile base. After defeating the Daleks, Dr Who takes Tom back to his own time so he is able to stop the robbery.

The story is closer to the original TV story than the first film.

Starring: Peter Cushing (Dr Who)
Bernard Cribbins (Tom Campbell)
Jill Curzon (Barbara)
Roberta Tovey (Susan)

1.214 Stage Shows

The Doctor, his enemies and companions have been involved in several stages shows, which have been approved of by the BBC.

The Curse of the Daleks Dr Who and the Daleks in Seven Keys to Doomsday Recall Unit Dr Who - The Ultimate Adventure

1.215 The Curse of the Daleks(1965)

In the year 2179 an Earth spaceship carrying two prisoners is forced to land on Skaro. The the humans meet the Thals. One of the prisoners reactivates the Daleks. Eventually they are defeated by the crew and the Thals.

Written by David Whitaker and Terry Nation.

1.216 Dr Who and the Daleks in Seven Keys to Doomsday (1974)

The Doctor regenerates on stage and is joined by Jimmy and Jenny. He returns to the planet Karn where he was sent by the Time Lords to collect 7 crystals. He eventually succeeds in his his task but has to hand them over to the Daleks, however he has managed to alter one of the crystals so that explodes, destroying the Daleks.

Starring: Trevor Martin (Dr Who) Wendy Padbury (Jenny) James Matthews (Jimmy)

Written by Terrance Dicks.

The role of the Doctor was assumed by Colin Jones during a 1981 revival.

1.217 Recall Unit (The Great T-Bag Mystery) (1984)

A show is to be performed for the Army and politicians in the Falklands. Two unemployed television actors attend the auditions

The play is a mixture sketches and topical reviews featuring UNIT, tea, the Master, Mrs Thatcher and a final confrontation with the Dragoids and the Supreme Dalek.

Starring:	Richard Franklin	(Yates)
	John Levene	(Benton)
	Nicholas Courtney	(Voice of the Brigadier)
	John Scott Martin	(Dalek Supreme)

1.218 Dr Who - The Ultimate Adventure (1989)

The Doctor is summoned to 10 Downing Street and asked to locate the kidnappers of an American envoy. Alien forces hope that this action will provoke Earth into a war that will make it an easy target for invasion. The Doctor eventually locates the kidnappers and with them the Cybermen, however behind the plot is the Emperor Dalek.

Jon Pertwee	(the Doctor)
Colin Baker	(the Doctor)
Rebecca Thornhill	(Crystal)
Graeme Smith	(Jason)
David Banks	(Karl)
	Rebecca Thornhill Graeme Smith

The play toured the UK with Jon Pertwee as the Doctor to start with, and later Colin Baker took over the role. For one performance the role was taken by David Banks.

1.219 Radio and Audio Productions

The have been several Audio only stories:-Dr Who and the Pescatons Slipback The Paradise of Death

1.220 Slipback (1985)

1.223 Other Stories

This section is for any other Dr Who stuff (not including the books), that I can find.

Doctor Who fights Masterplan Q In a Fix with Sontarans Dimensions in Time

1.224 Doctor Who Fights Masterplan Q (1971)

This story was printed on the back of choclate bar wrappers from Nestle, there were 15 to collect in total to complete the story. I couldn't help but include it as I remember it well.

The third Doctor and Jo land on the planet Quorus to find the Master controlling a dinosaur with which he aims to take control of England.

1.225 In a Fix with Sontarans (1985)

This was a story of 8 min 46 secs in length and was part of the Jim'll Fix it programme. 8 year old Gareth Jenkins wrote asking if he could meet the Doctor and go inside the TARDIS. In the end a special story was written in the which Gareth appears alongside Colin Baker as the Doctor.

Starring: Colin Baker (the Doctor) Janet Fielding (Tegan) Gareth Jenkins (Himself)

1.226 Dimensions in Time (1993)

This was a two part story shown to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the programme. Each episode was approx 7 mins long, the first part was shown during the BBC's Children in Need fund-raising event and the second part the next day during Noel's House Party.

It featured every living Doctor, nearly all of the companions and the Rani. Set in Albert Square (from the BBC soap Eastenders) during three time periods and also featuring a number of the cast of Eastenders.

Viewers had the option to phone in and select which of two Eastenders should assist the Doctor in the second part of the story. It was broadcast using a new 3D system that provided normal pictures for those without the special glasses needed to see the effect.

1.227 New Adventures

Doctor Who: The New Adventures are a series of authorized, fulllength Doctor Who novels, continuing from the end of Survival

the final Sylvester McCoy story, and featuring the Seventh Doctor, Ace, and new companion Bernice "Benny" Summerfield, in a series of science-fiction plots and situations. Generally, a new one is released about every month, dating back to late 1991; authors include prominent Who people such as Terrance Dicks, John Peel, and Ben Aaronovitch, and new authors such as Paul Cornell, and Kate Orman. They are published by Doctor Who Books, a division of Virgin Publishing Co.

The New Adventures promise to deliver stories "too big and broad for the small screen; full length science fiction novels". In some cases, the traditional Who format has been reworked, as in stories such as Ben Aaronovitch's

Transit

, in which the

Doctor is not the central character and the genre of the book is cyberpunk, which clashes with previous editions of the Whoniverse. Another novel,

Birthright

by Nigel Robinson, is primarily

Doctor-less, although generally well-received. Many of the books are aimed at hard-core sci-fans, and some Who traditionalists do not find them totally satisfying. However, for the moment, they are Doctor Who, and as such we treat them reverently.

Recent novels have brought back many of the traditional series villains and heroes, such as the Cybermen, the Ice Warriors, UNIT, and, sometime soon, a newly-regenerated Master.

1.228 Timewyrm: Genesys John Peel

The Doctor and Ace are drawn to Ancient Mesopotamia in search of an evil sentience that has tumbled from the stars - the dreaded Timewyrm of ancient Gallifreyan legend.

1.229 Timewyrm: Exodus Terrance Dicks

Pursuit of the Timewyrm brings the Doctor and Ace to the Festival of Britain, but the London that they find is strangely subdued, and patrolling the streets are the uniformed thugs of the Britischer Freikorps.

1.230 Timewyrm: Apocalypse Nigel Robinson

Kirith seems an ideal planet, a world of peace and plenty ruled by the kindly hand of the Great Matriarch. But it's here that the end of the universe, of everything, will be precipitated. Only the Doctor can stop the tragedy.

1.231 Timewyrm: Revelation Paul Cornell

Ace has died of Oxygen starvation on the moon, having thought the place to be Norfolk. "I do believe that's unique" says the afterlife's receptionist.

1.232 Cat's Cradle: Time's Crucible Marc Platt

The TARDIS is invaded by an alien presence and is then destroyed The Doctor disappears. Ace, lost and alone , finds herself in a bizarre city where nothing is to be trusted, even time itself.

1.233 Cat's Cradle: Warhead Andrew Cartmel

The place is Earth. The time is the near future -all too near As environmental destruction reaches the point of no return, multinational corporations scheme to buy immortality in a poisoned world. If Earth is to survive, somebody has to stop them.

1.234 Cat's Cradle: Witch Mark Andrew Hunt

A small village in Wales is visited by creatures of myth. Nearby a coach crashes on the M40, killing all of it's passengers. Police can find no record of their existence. The Doctor and Ace arrive, searching for a cure for the TARDIS and uncover a gateway to another world.

1.235 Nightshade Mark Gatiss

When the Doctor brings Ace to the village of Crook Marsham in 1968, he seems unwilling to recognize that something sinister is going on. But the villagers are being killed, one by one, and everyone's past is coming back to them, including the Doctor's.

1.236 Love and War Paul Cornell

Heaven: a planet rich in history where the Doctor comes to meet a new friend, and betray an old one, a place where people come to die, but where the dead don't always rest in peace. On Heaven, the Doctor finally loses Ace but finds archeologist Bernice Summerfield, a new companion whose destiny is inextricably linked with his.

1.237 Transit Ben Aaronovitch

It's the ultimate mass transit system, the binding of the planets of the Solar system together. But something is living in the network, chewing it's way to the very heart of the system and leaving a trail of death and mutilation behind. Once again the Doctor is all that stands between humanity and it's own mistakes.

1.238 The Highest Science Gareth Roberts

The Highest Science - a technology so dangerous that it destroyed its creators. Many people have searched for it, but now Sheldukher, the most wanted criminal in the galaxy believes that he has found it. The Doctor and Benny must battle to stop him on a planet where chance and coincidence have become far too powerful.

1.239 The Pit Neil Penswick

One of the seven planets is a nameless giant, quarantined against all intruders. But when the TARDIS materializes, it become clear that the planet is far from empty, and the Doctor begins to realize that the planet hides a terrible secret from the Time Lord's past.

1.240 Deceit Peter Darvill-Evans

Ace - three years older, wiser and tougher - is back. She is part of a group of irregular auxiliaries on an expedition to Arcadia. They think they are hunting Daleks, but the Doctor knows better. He knows that the paradise planet hides a being far more powerful than the Daleks, and much more powerful.

1.241 Lucifer Rising Jim Mortimore & Andy Lane

Reunited, the Doctor, Ace and Benny travel to Lucifer, the site of a scientific expedition that they know will shortly cease to exist. Discovering why involves them in sabotage, murder and the resurrection of aeons old alien powers. Are there Angels on Lucifer ? and what does it all have to do with Ace ?

1.242 White Darkness David McIntee

The TARDIS crew, hoping for a rest, come to Haiti in 1915. But they find that the island is far from peaceful, revolution is brewing in the city, the dead are walking from the cemeteries, and far underground, the ancient rulers of the galaxy are stirring in their sleep.

1.243 Shadowmind Christopher Bulis

On the colony world of Arden, something dangerous is growing stronger. Something that steels minds and memories. Something that can reach out to another planet, Tairgire, where the newest exhibit in the sculpture park is a blue box surmounted by a flashing light.

1.244 Birthright Nigel Robinson

Stranded in Edwardian London with a dying TARDIS, Benny investigates a series of grisly murders. In the far future Ace leads a group of guerrillas against the insect like alien oppressors. Why has the Doctor left them, just when they needed him most ?

1.245 Iceberg David Banks

In 2006, and ecological disaster threatens the Earth, only the FLIPback team, working in an Antarctic base, can avert the catastrophe. But hidden beneath the ice, sinister forces have gathered to sabotage humanity's last hope. Cybermen have returned and the Doctor must face them alone.

1.246 Blood Heat Jim Mortimore

The TARDIS is attacked by an alien force, Benny is flung into the vortex, and the Doctor and Ace crash land on Earth. There they find dinosaurs roaming the derelict London streets and Brigadier Lethbridge-Stewart leading the remnants of UNIT in a desperate fight against the Silurians who have taken over and changed the world.

1.247 The Dimension Riders Daniel Blythe

A holiday in Oxford is cut short when the Doctor is called to space station Q4, where ghostly soldiers from the future watch from the shadows among the dead. Soon the Doctor is trapped in the past, Ace is accused of treason and Benny is uncovering deceit among the colleges cloisters.

1.248 The Left Handed Hummingbird Kate Orman

Someone has been playing with time. The Doctor, Ace and Benny must travel to the Aztec empire in 1487, to London in the swinging sixties and to the sinking of the Titanic as they attempt to rectify the temporal faults, and survive the attacks of the living god Huitzilin.

1.249 Conundrum Steve Lyons

A killer is stalking the streets of the village of Arandale. The victims are found each day, drained of blood. Someone has interfered with the Doctor's past again, and he's landed in a place he knows he once destroyed, from which it seems there's no escape.

1.250 No Future Paul Cornell

At last the Doctor comes face to face with the enemy who has been threatening him, leading him a chase that has brought the TARDIS to London in 1976. There he finds reality has been subtly changed and the country he once knew is rapidly descending into anarchy as an alien force prepares to land.

1.251 Tragedy Day Gareth Roberts

When the TARDIS crew arrive on Olleril, they soon realize that all is not well. Assassins arrive to carry out a killing that may endanger the entire universe. A being known as the Supreme One tests horrific weapons. And a secret order of monks observes the growing chaos.

1.252 The Master

The origins of the Master are a little vague. It is known that he and the Doctor were at the Acadamy together, and had therefore known each other long before the first televised meeting, Terror of the Autons . The meetings with the third Doctor were gentlemanly affairs with the Doctor sometimes rescuing him when his plans went wrong.

By the time the Fourth Doctor met him again, he was at the end of his natural life span and was little more than an animated corpse. Later he stole the body of an alien so he could extend his life further.

The new master was less gallant than his earlier incarnation at tended to make errors of judgement. He has always retained the knack of escaping to fight another day.

1.253 The Rani

The Rani is the only villainous female Time Lord thus far encountered by the Doctor. Both the Doctor and the Master hold her abilities in the highest regard, and her skills are demonstrated by her invention of a remote control unit for TARDISes. Whilst less theatrical than the Master she does share his sense of humour.

1.254 Borusa

Borusa's first appearance was as leader of the Prydonian Chapter of the Time Lords. He advocated calm and rational reflection, though there was a hint of corruption when he tried to cover up the disloyalty of Chancellor Goth. He was the Doctor's tutor at the Acadamy.

Later he became President of the Time Lords, and his thirst for even more power increased, at one point he was willing to sacrifice the Doctor to further his aims.

By a later incarnation he had become criminally psychotic, prepared to break all of the laws of time to become immortal. He achieved this immortality, via a trap and his paralysed in stone.

1.255 Omega

Omega was a stellar engineer who paid a horrific price for a monumental discovery. Using the stellar manipulator he gave his name to, his legacy was the source of power that enabled the Time Lords to harness time travel technology.

After being sacrificed, it was only his sheer force of will that kept him alive in a universe of anti-matter. Believing that the Time Lords had abandoned him he plotted his revenge. It took all of the three existing incarnations of the Doctor to defeat his plan.

Later he discovered how to cross into the universe of matter having chosen the Doctors body to be his new form.

1.256 Rassilon

Rassilon is considered to be the founder of Time Lord society. In the Book of the Old Time, is was revealed that he was an engineer and architect and had travelled into a black hole where he had found a source of power that became known as the Eye of Harmony. He had stabilized it and placed it beneath the Panopticon.

The Time Lord President has access to several artifacts from the old time, the Golden Sash of Rassilon and the key. Other items that are known to exist are the Black Scrolls of Rassilon, the Harp of Rassilon and the Coronet of Rassilon.

Rassilon is lies in eternal sleep in the Dark Tower, a large structure within the Death Zone of Gallifrey. The tower possess a number of problems for those that wish to reach Rassilons Tomb and claim immortality, only those that manage to overcome the problems are able to claim the prize.

1.257 Meddling Monk

The Meddling Monk was the first character introduced in the program that was from the same race as the Doctor (except perhaps Susan). He travelled in time altering past events, which was his hobby. He apparently left the home planet around 50 years after the Doctor and his TARDIS was a later version, Mark IV. He also turns up in one of the New Adventures books.

1.258 Valeyard

The Valeyard started out as the Doctors prosecutor when the Doctor was called to trial by his fellow Time Lords. It was later revealed that he was actually and amalgam of the Doctors darker traits. Along with the Master he tried to fix the trail to prove the Doctor's guilt.

1.259 Other Time Lords

- Azamel An old friend and mentor of the Doctor, also known as the Master of Jaconda.
- Castellan A member of the Time Lord Inner Council
- Chancellor Member of the Inner Council
- Chronotis A Time Lord at the end of his last regeneration who had been living in retirement in Cambridge. It was later revealed that he was in fact the notorious criminal Salyavin.
- Drax A cockney speaking Time Lord that had been on a tech course with the Doctor 'back in '92'. Knew the Doctor as Theta Sigma.
- K'anpo Probably the Doctors old mentor who used to live in the mountains of south Gallifrey, and that helped the Doctor in his second regeneration.
- Morbius Morbius once led the High Council. The Time Lords concerned about his growing power captured and executed him. His brain was preserved and later it was attempted to be linked up with another body.
- War Chief A renegade Time Lord that was conducting experiments on the war like nature of humans for a race of Aliens.

1.263 KNOWN CUTS TO EXISTING PRINTS

THE TIME MEDDLER episode 4 Close-up shots of Saxons stabbing Ulf and Sven are deleted. THE CELESTIAL TOYMAKER episode 4 The "Next Episode" caption is removed near the end of the episode. THE WAR MACHINES episode 3 A line of the conversation between Brett and Krimpton about the programming of the machines is missing. Two lines of Major Green's orders to the workers are cut. Several sections have been removed from the army's attack on the warehouse. THE WAR MACHINES episode 4 Scene of a War Machine demolishing a telephone box is deleted. Two lines of dialogue are missing when Polly reports back to WOTAN.

THE TOMB OF THE CYBERMEN episode/s ? On comparing with the original off-air audios (not the BBC versions), several short dialogue scenes are revealed as being missing from the BBC prints of this story. Further details unknown.

THE DOMINATORS episode 4 Death scene of Balun is edited. Death scene of Tensa is edited (also on reprise on episode 5).

The prints the BBC hold of THE TIME MEDDLER episodes 1 and 3 and THE FACELESS ONES episode 1 are complete.

Some other episodes have jumps in them, but little material is actually missing at these points. The jumps in THE FACELESS ONES episode 3 are serious enough to render the episode untransmittable in its present form.

1.264 Missing Episodes

During the early seventies many Doctor Who stories were destroyed by the BBC, along with vast amounts of other material kept by the BBC, in order to cut costs in storage. This was before they knew they could market much of the stuff. Copyright laws had much to do with this also, along with storage costs and fire codes.

Many of the lost episodes are of the later William Hartnell and much from the Patrick Troughton era. As many as 109 episodes are still missing (equivalent to 2 to 3 seasons).

1.265 The Missing Season

Before the series was put on hold in 1985, the stories for the ↔ next season had been commissioned, these would have taken place between what is now Revelation of the Daleks and The Mysterious Planet . Three of the four stories have been novelized, and it is these which are detailed below.

> The Nightmare Fair Mission to Magnus The Ultimate Evil

1.266 The Nightmare Fair Graham Williams

The Doctor and Peri are drawn to Blackpool. There the Doctor confronts the Celestial Toymaker, who is revealed to be a being from another universe. The Toymaker is planning to use a monsterous new videogame to enslave mankind.

The Doctor eventually defeats the Toymaker's game and imprisons the evil immortal in a trap powered by his own brain.

1.267 Mission to Magnus Philip Martin

The Doctor is forceibly drawn to the temperate world of Magnus by Anzor, a Time Lord who used to bully him at school. Magnus is a former Earth colony where a virus has ravaged the male population, leaving women to rule. The Doctor defeats a plot by the Ice Warriors to move Magnus's orbit and turn the planet into an ice world, thwarting the exiled Sil's business plans in the process. Freed of its virus, Magnus's female leaders contemplate reconciliation with the males of their brother planet, Salvak

1.268 The Ultimate Evil Wally K Daly

The evil Dwarf Mordant, one of the Salankans, a race of ruthless cosmic traders, uses a hate ray to start a war between the peace loving nation of Tranquela and the computer controlled society of Ameleria in order to sell them weapons. The Doctor stumbles accross the plot whilst looking for a good place for a holiday, and convinces Mordant to leave by threatening him with the Time Lord's wrath, if they learn that the crystal balls he gave them are spying devices.

1.269 Enemies of the Doctor

This section contains details on the Doctors more famous and $\,\leftrightarrow\,$ frequent enemies, other that the Time Lords listed earlier.

Cybermen

Daleks

Ice Warriors

Sea Devils

Silurians

Sontarans

Yeti

1.270 Cybermen

The Cybermen originally evolved from the the inhabitants of Mondas, Earth's twin planet. At some point, Mondas left the solar system, and the inhabitants evolved into creatures of ruthless logic, their organs were gradually replaced by cybernetic parts until the whole body was transformed into a Cyberman.

Their only real weakness is gold as it cripples the breathing devices. They have also a suscepibility to gravity and certain forms of radiation.

1.271 Daleks

Created by Davros, the Daleks were the mutated descendants of the Kaleds, one of the two races on the planet Skaro.

In their natural form they are small green blob like creatures, however they live inside a mobile casing which is difficult to destory. This casing has been shown to be powered by a number of different sources, ranging from static electricity to solar power.

Their purpose is to exterminate all other life forms and become the dominant species in the universe. This has led them into a number of wars, notably with mankind. They have also been known to split into various factions amongst themselves, some siding with Davros against others groups.

1.272 Ice Warriors

Native Martians, they are large green scaly creatures equipped with sonic guns and armour. They are sensitive to heat, and this is the only known weakness.

The leaders appear to be less bulky and awkward that the warriors themselves.

A group scouted Earth during it's first Ice age and accidentally became trapped in the Ice, thus the name Ice Warriors was adopted when many years later they were discovered.

1.273 Sea Devils

Intelligent reptillian life form that ruled the Earth during the Creataceous period. They were eventually driven to hibernate in underground shelters by some unknown cosmic event. They awoke and started to try to remove man from the planet so that they could rule again.

Silurians

1.274 Silurians

Intelligent reptillian life form that ruled the Earth during the Creataceous period. They were eventually driven to hibernate in underground shelters by some unknown cosmic event.

The were awoken by the power leaks from the nearby British Atomic Research Centre. At first they tried to negotiate a peace with the humans so that could both could share the planet, however, some of the race found this unacceptable and tried to wipe mankind out using a virus.

Sea Devils

1.275 Sontarans

Militaristic aliens that are short stubby humanoids. Their Homeworld, Sontar, had a gravity superior to Earth, which gave them their superhuman strength.

They are a cloned species and therefore capable of creating millions of warriors and so sustain hugh military losses in their long war with the Rutans.

They have a small hole in the back of the neck called the Probic Vent, this is their main weakness, they also need to recharge their life force when outside their regular environment.

1.276 Yeti

The Great Intelligence used robotic repilcas of Yeti to frighten away travellers from the Det-Sen monastery and protect it's first attempt at reincorporation.

Later a Yeti was re-activated in London, and together with others, started to attack through the underground system, until being reprogrammed.
